Opta Facts

- Australia have won two of their last three men's Tests against Argentina including a come-from-behind win when they met in Round 3 of The Rugby Championship 2025; however, they haven't defeated the Pumas twice in a single year since 2021.
- Argentina have not trailed at half-time in any of their last six men's Tests against Australia but have gone on to lose three times in that frame, while they haven't come back from a half-time deficit against the Wallabies since October 2014.
- Australia have won three of their last four men's Tests after winning only one of their previous five despite reaching 30 points in a game only once across all nine of those games.
- Australia have won three of their last four men's Tests in Sydney, including a 22-12 win against the British & Irish Lions in the New South Wales capital in August this year; though, they had won only one of their previous 12 games in the city prior to that last four Tests.
- Argentina have lost five of their last six men's Tests away from home including their last three in a row; the last time they lost more in succession on the road was a seven-game stretch from August to November in 2021.
